Abstract: The types (only paratypes) of 102 species of Mycetophilidae described and deposited in this Museum by Dr. José Pedro Duret are recorded. A selection from his rich collection was also here deposited by him. Most of his collection was acquired by Dr. Loic Matile, Paris, France. The Museum houses no other types of species of this family.

Key words: Insecta, Diptera, Mycetophilidae, type specimens.

Resumen: Catálogo de los tipos de Mycetophilidae (Insecta, Diptera) depositados en el Museo Argentino de Ciencias Naturales, Buenos Aires. Se catalogan los ejemplares tipo (solo paratipos) de 102 especies de Mycetophilidae descritas y depositadas en este Museo por el Dr. José Pedro Duret. Una selección de su rica colección también fue depositada por él aquí; la mayor parte fue adquirida por el Dr. Loic Matile, Paris, Francia. El Museo no alberga otros tipos de esta familia.

Palabras clave: Insecta, Diptera, Mycetophilidae, ejemplares tipo.

PRESENTATION

Several years before he died (he passed away in May, 2007, at the age of 94 years), as he retired, Dr. José Pedro Duret deposited in this Museum an assemblage of Mycetophilidae selected from his collection; this important gift includes paratypes of a great deal of the species he described in his past decades. That reference collection conforms almost the whole of the mycetophilid collection of the Museum, as the family had received little attention here. The bulk of the mycetophilids of his rich dipteran collection was acquired by the French specialist, Dr. Loic Matile, Paris.

Most of the specimens studied by Dr. Duret were collected in Pucará, Lanin National Park, near San Martín de los Andes, Neuquén Province, by Ing. Sergio Schajovskoy, and in localities in central Chile by Mr. Luis E. Peña; several others came from the southernmost part of Chilean Patagonia.

All the species were diagnosed by Dr. Duret using the features of the male genitalia and of the wing venation, and only seldom using characters of the females too. The descriptions were always accompanied by fine, very elaborate and precise drawings, showing the finest details, especially of the male genitalia.

The types (only paratypes) of 102 specific names, deposited in this Museum are here catalogued. The specific and subspecific epithets are alphabetically entered, followed by the generic and subgeneric ones, with the original spelling. An account of the types actually housed in the Museum follows, with a description of the labels. The numbers mentioned at the entries refer to the publications and to the register of Dr. Duret, except for the last one, which corresponds to the Museum database number. No attempts were made to search for later nomenclatural changes or synonymies.

The specimens are glued to pointed cards held by entomological pins; only very few are glued directly to the pins. Most of the males bear a microscopic preparation made with a cover glass, held by a piece of cardboard, pierced with the same pin, and containing dissected parts, mainly the genitalia; they bear the registration number on the reverse. All the types bear an inverted, small label referred to the database of the Museum (Entomological Division), as "MACN-En 0000".

Specimen information is currently managed with the application "Aurora" (Rodríguez, 2007-2010). I am sincerely indebted to Miss Priscila Hanschel for kind help with the management concerning the database.

In the geographic references, if the country is not mentioned, Argentina is meant. The abbreviations used are: allot., allotypus, allotype; f., figure(s); genit., genitalia; handwr., handwritten; holot., holotypus, holotype; is., isle, island; leg., legit, legint; parat., paratypus, paratype(s); print., printed; prov., province(s).
